City Government Matters!

Decisions that affect our every day lives are made by three levels of government: Federal, Provincial and Municipal.

Our municipal government, the City of Ottawa, has all or partial responsibility for many services:

Which of these services are of concern to you and your community or organization?

Present Your Views to a Standing Committee

What is a Deputation?

A deputation is a formal written or verbal statement to make your views known to City Council.

Why Does the City do This?

It is one way for City Councillors to listen to those who elected them. In this way, City governments demonstrate they are open to citizen input.

Where Are They Presented?

Deputations are usually made to one of the Standing Committees. In that way, you make your views known to the Councillors on that Committee.

Why Make a Deputation?

This is a great way to educate City Councillors about your issue and to get your message out publicly. You get your point of view on the public record.

When Can I Make a Deputation?

You can ask to speak to an issue that is being discussed in a Standing Committee. You call the Committee Coordinator to schedule your 5 minute presentation. Bring friends with you to support you.

Meet With Your City Councillor

8 EASY STEPS

One – Identify the Councillor

Two – Put your team together

Three – Prepare your message

Identify the key messages.

Research key facts and figures.

Four – Call the Councillor's office to book a meeting

Five – Plan your meeting

Six – Meet with the Councillor

Remember you are the expert on your issue.

Introduce your team.

Explain your issues.

Get a commitment.

Thank them.

Seven – Send a thank you letter after the meeting

Remind him or her what they agreed to do

Stay in touch; let your Councillor know what you are doing.

Eight – Record your experience

So you can follow up on what was said and reflect on how to be even more effective the next time.

Women Have A Lot To Contribute

Women have particular insights to bring in helping city leaders to create quality services, because we see what is needed as we...

- Care for Families,
- Volunteer in our community,
- Provide and receive services.

We Can Make a Difference

There are success stories of women in Ottawa speaking up and being heard by city staff and politicians.

We can build on these experiences and then pass our learning on to our communities.

We have both a right and responsibility to do so.

Is there an issue you and your community want to see addressed by the City of Ottawa?

To Get Started:

- Consider the possible solutions to the problem.
- Find out how the City of Ottawa might address this.
- Visit the City Web-site: If you don't have a computer, ask a friend to help you..

Go to www.ottawa.ca

Click on City Hall.

You Will Find:

- City staff and their departments.
- Committees and their area of responsibility.
- Reports on issues.
- Consultations open to the public.

Ask other community organizations who work on the issue.

Communicate Your Message From Your Home or Community

Leave a Phone Message

- Call to leave a message for a Councillor.
- If you call after hours, you can just leave a voice mail. It's that easy!

"Hello, my name is and I live in your riding (or my organization is in your riding), I am concerned about ..., important that..., I want you to...."

- Ask your friends to call too.

Mail, Fax or E-mail a Letter

- State the problem, the impact on your community, what you want the Councillor to do and ask them to get back to you.
- It can be short and to the point.
- Ask your friends to write too.

Circulate a petition.

- State your concern and what you want to happen.
- Collect names, addresses and signatures.
- Send it to your Councillor.

Select the City Councillors to Influence

Consider:

- Who is the Councillor that represents your ward.
- Which Councillors sit on the Standing Committee that will address your issue.
- Which Councillors would be most supportive.

To Learn More About a City Councillor:

- Ask other community groups who share your concerns.
- Read the newspaper to see what Councillors say.
- Listen to the radio for interviews with Councillors.
- Watch City Council meetings on Rogers Cable 22 (Cable 23, in French).
- Attend City Council meetings and Standing Committees.

There Are Many Ways to Make Your Views Known

- Inform your City Councillor
Call, e-mail, fax or write him or her.
Set up a meeting with him or her.
Thank your Councillor when they vote in your favor.
Invite a Councillor to your events.
Invite a Councillor to your community or organization.
