January 26, 2018

The Right Honourable Justin Trudeau, P.C, M.P
Prime Minister of Canada
Office of the Prime Minister
80 Wellington Street
Ottawa, ON K1A 0A2

Dear Prime Minister:

As the first anniversary of the Quebec City mosque shooting on January 29, 2017 approaches, I am writing to inform the Government of Canada that the City of Ottawa will be issuing a proclamation on Monday, January 29, 2018 speaking out against all forms of hate and bigotry in our community. Cities across Canada are raising their voices on behalf of vulnerable minority communities, and standing united in the face of the bigotry, hate and Islamophobia, which ultimately threatens the safety and rights of all Canadians.

A copy of the proclamation is attached for your information.

I am also writing to support the request made by the National Council of Canadian Muslims for the Government of Canada designate January 29, 2018 as a National Day of Remembrance and Action on Islamophobia to highlight the power that communities can achieve by working together to counter hatred and divisiveness and to work toward building an inclusive society.

Sincerely,

Jim Watson
Mayor
City of Ottawa
